NO FURTHER DELAY IN THE TEARING UP OF RAILS

President Belden Will Consider No Lease Proposition

Mr. Hartford of the local citizens' committee met President D. A. Belden of the Southern Massachusetts electric system today in relation to the saving of the Portsmouth and Exeter road from Greenland to Stratham Hill Park. Mr. Belden said that the company would consider no proposition for the piece of track outside of outright purchase. He also said that there would be no further delay in the tearing up of the rails.

SEVENTEEN DELEGATES GIVEN TO PRESIDENT TAFT

National Committee Award One to Mr. Roosevelt

CHICAGO, June 12.—One delegate for Colonel Roosevelt, the first awarded him since the national committee began the hearing of contest cases last Friday, and seventeen for President Taft were the net results of yesterday's session of the Republican national committee. In all, a hundred and one delegates have been accorded President Taft since the committee opened its hearings. The one placed in the Roosevelt column yesterday was D. C. Edwards from the eleventh district of Kentucky. The Taft forces on the committee refused by a vote of 33 to 19 to seat both of the Roosevelt delegates whose places were contested, but agreed to split which gave Colonel Roosevelt and President Taft each one delegate from the district.

The half victory for Colonel Roosevelt came at the end of a day in which all of the other much-discussed contests from Kentucky had been decided in President Taft's favor. In some of these, the Roosevelt men had acquiesced; in others they had mustered a vote of from 11 to 17 against the Taft decisions.

Senator Borah, the most active Roosevelt adherent in the committee, protested against splitting the eleventh district delegation.

"There is no justification for it," he declared. "If one is given both should be."

Arthur I. Vorys of Ohio had made the motion to seat the divided delegation. John G. Cappers, Senator Borah and Francis J. Heney led an effort to adopt a substitute to seat both Roosevelt men but they could muster only nineteen votes. The split delegation was then unanimously seated.

President Taft's four contested delegates at large from Kentucky headed by Senator W. O. Bradley were seated by only eleven votes in the negative. He was given the six from the first, second and tenth districts unanimously.

The contest against the two in the fourth district was withdrawn and the five from the seventh, eighth and eleventh districts were won against the votes of the Roosevelt forces.

Sharp interchanges between Francis J. Heney of San Francisco and Taft members of the committee characterized the long day's session over the Kentucky contests. Mr. Heney, who will appear today in the heading of the California contest, repeatedly referred to frauds in Kentucky elections and compared conditions to those that existed in California under Al Ruff. Early objections to his remarks were followed late in the afternoon by sarcastic replies of "thanks" from Taft members of the committee when he criticized their decisions.

Governor Hadley of Missouri, who is to come before the committee this week as a Roosevelt contestant from Missouri, was also in the committee during the day, on the proxy of another member.

Restrictions upon the time of argument were abandoned in the Kentucky cases today and all evidence was heard at length. As a result the committee today began its session at 9 o'clock, with the prospect of night sessions the remainder of the week.

BOSTON AND MAINE RAILROAD

To the Manufacturers and Industrial Workers of New Hampshire:

At the hearing before the Public Service Commission at Concord on Friday, June 7th, the counsel for the Commission intimated that the commodity rates which were not advanced in 1903 were not bearing their fair share of the burden of transportation.

The inference was plain that if the railroad desired to maintain its present revenue and the Commission should order the class rates reduced, the railroad could make up for this loss of revenue by increasing these commodity rates which are enjoyed by practically every manufacturing industry in New Hampshire.

That the railroad cannot suffer any loss of revenue without seriously impairing its service is too plain for argument.

If these commodity rates are too low, we ought to have the additional revenue. We have given them to assist in developing the industries of New Hampshire. If we have erred in giving too low rates it is our duty to increase them. They are practically the only rates which can be increased under the restrictive statutes of 1883 and 1889.

If, on the other hand, you require these rates to enable you to compete with manufacturers in other states you must convince the Commission of this. You, better than anybody else, know whether this is so.

The importance of the question is seen by the fact that more than sixty thousand persons are employed in five hundred different establishments which enjoy these rates. These represent more than two hundred and fifty thousand persons in New Hampshire—more than half the population—and in addition to these the farmers, store keepers and others are indirectly but just as seriously affected because of the market which these industrial workers afford for their products. The industries represent an investment of $80,000,000.

The position of counsel in a case would not ordinarily be entitled to weight as indicating how an issue may be determined, but it must be borne in mind that the counsel making these statements is counsel for the Public Service Commission and necessarily and properly occupies intimate and confidential relations with it.

The Commission has fixed upon Monday, June 17, at 11 o'clock A. M., as a time when it will afford manufacturers an opportunity to be heard upon the question whether their rates are lower than necessary.

A failure on your part to appear at this hearing will be properly regarded by the Commission and by the Railroad as evidence that the contention of the counsel for the Commission is sound.

A GOOD PLACE FOR A SUMMER OR PERMANENT HOME

Abraham Hill Writes Interestingly of the Town of Eliot

Where is a good place for a summer or a permanent home?

I have traveled through New England, New York and New Jersey, and I have not found a more desirable spot than the little town of about fifteen hundred inhabitants, Eliot, Maine. With a climate which is equal for comfort and healthfulness to any on earth I believe. We have one woman who has lived here all her life who is between 90 and 95 years old. The man who was 93 the 23rd of last January, another will be 93 in June. We have 3 who are between 80 and 90. We have 18 between 70 and 80. Most of those have lived here all their lives. In summer we have some hot weather in the day time, but in the afternoon nearly every day we have a little sea breeze which increases towards night so we have very few nights when we cannot sleep comfortably. The spring cannot be surpassed anywhere. I wish every one who reads this could have ridden with me today and see the country. Grass never looked more fresh and green with a promise of a large crop of hay, and every tree which can bear a blossom on it just as full as it is possible. We raise large quantities of apples in this town, so the outlook is so good we do not have a word of complaint from the farmers except occasionally on days there will be so many that they will not be worth anything. I think there is nothing which grows in this latitude of fruit or vegetables which cannot be raised in this town. The weather in September and October and often a good part of November is simply perfect. I pity our summer friends who have to hurry home early in September for while we usually give them fine weather during July and August if they would stay two months longer they would want to make this their permanent home. I am not an artist so I cannot do justice to the natural beauties of this place but will do the best I can with this old pen.

Eliot is situated on the Maine side of the Piscataqua river, the south eastern and being about two miles above Portsmouth. First, the river for fifteen miles from its mouth can hardly be matched in its natural beauty. It is from 40 to 80 feet deep with water so clear that little pebbles can be plainly seen where the water is 6 feet deep. The width of the river is I think from a quarter to one mile wide with shores in places which extend back half a mile with a gradual ascent, and in other places are high bluffs extending well out to deep water. Some of which are covered with thick pine woods to the water's edge. The river is so straight and deep that if the old Portsmouth bridge were out of the way I think the big German steamer which has just been launched would sail up as far as Dover Point, about 2 miles from the mouth of the river. The town is about six miles long from southeast to northwest, on about three and a half wide from northeast to southwest. There are two main roads running from south east to northwest leading from Portsmouth to Dover and South Berwick. One about half a mile back from the river, which is called the Fore road, he other about two miles east which is called the Back road. From the first we get occasional glimpses of the river but none from the last road. Then there is another road running through South Eliot, or what is called the Neck. Keeping along by the river and in sight of it mostly all the way to South Berwick by crossing through three farms by a private way. It is reported that a rich man has bought one of these farms on which is a hill which must be 10 feet higher than the water with a gradual descent to the water, which gives it one of the most beautiful western views my eyes have ever seen. About four miles from Portsmouth is situated the Green Acre Inn with cottages and tents scattered about it where one can live very cheaply or as well as any one needs to with ever so much money. Mrs.

Bull's fine cottage is situated near the inn. Here again is a western or sunset view which delights every one who sees it. A short distance above this on the road to the big Pines where mostly all the forenoon meetings are held when fair. If you want to know the names of the different trees you will have to come and see for I cannot remember them, if I could I could not spell them. Near the Pines we find the genial friendly Dr. Fillmore Moore, with bungalows, tents and camps large and small scattered about in cozy nooks and under the trees, where any one can get a big one or a little one as his pocket or fancy wishes. He has a large dining bungalow where he gives you scientifically cooked food in large or small quantities just as you wish and you pay for only what you get. I have known people who come there thinking they were sick. After living in the open and living on properly cooked food have gone away well. They have very pleasant times there with amusements of one kind and another. One which I liked is the Fort Dance. I can sit and look at it for hours and grow young. We will go back to the river again to Mrs. Davis's beautiful Chinese Bungalow whose doors are always open with hand outstretched to welcome all comers, and show what a pleasant summer home she has, though she stays with us so long that we look upon her as one of our own people leaving here and crossing the farm of which I spoke and going up the river about two miles we come to the Lanier Camp of which I shall have more to say later. The most thickly settled part of the town is South Eliot or the Neck.

Most of the houses are neat, nice kept cottages with gardens around them, largely occupied by people who work in Portsmouth or at the navy yard. After leaving them we come to small farms for about two miles when we come to about the center of the population of the town where is located the Town Hall, High School, Congregational Church, one of the best little libraries in the state, Grange Hall and a common school, all within five minutes walk. For about two miles along this road we find some of the finest houses in town, and much of the way under immense elm trees, some of which are thought to be one hundred years old. A large part of the way we are in sight of the river. The electric cars cross this road near the Congregational church, so any one can take the cars to Portsmouth, Dover, South Berwick or York Harbor and Beach. Driving up this road by the river a little more than a mile from the Congregational church we come to the Lanier Camp which is owned and run by Mr. Sidney Lanier, a son of the Southern poet by the same name, and Mrs. Lanier and they are so evenly matched in geniality and kindly hospitable ways of treating all who call or stop with them that one cannot tell whether Mr. or Mrs. Lanier is at the head of enterprise. They have a beautiful farm of about fifty-five acres with a very fine view of the river from nearly every spot on the farm. Here they have a sort of nature school for young people anywhere below one hundred years, but mostly below thirty, but I am always welcome and am getting well up towards a hundred. They have camp scattered along the bank of the river and on different parts of the farm mostly in groves of trees, where they entertained about one hundred and fifty last year feeding them in a large open room partly under a roof and partly canvas. It is also a kind of mutually helpful company. All seem to be lending a hand to make others comfortable and happy. And by the looks of those whom we meet they are very successful in their efforts. Next above this Mrs. Sturtevant owns about five acres with a river frontage of about five hundred feet with a bungalow on the upper part. When I go in this bungalow I think it is prettier than Mrs. Davis' of which I have spoken. And when I go in Mrs. Davis' I think that is the prettiest. Mrs. Davis is a little more Chinese while Mrs. Sturtevant's is a sort of mixture Chinese and Japanese. I think she has the choice spot on the whole river but do not think you will buy a lot there unless you are able to cover the land about one inch thick with pure gold, but if you she will not only give you permission to look over this beautiful spot, but go with you and show you her beauties, and after that I think if you were to offer a tip for her politeness you would not try it the second time. About a half mile above this we come to another Eliot novelty, "A Woman's Forum." If I thought that Lady Forum was more honorable I should say that, for if every woman who sits around her parlor and entertains callers could do it as eloquent as she can, they would be proud, but you wait a little while after leaving the house and you will be likely to see her go to the stable and take out into the floor two large, fat horses and lower from overhead some heavy work harnesses and hook them up and hook the horses to a plow or harrow and get on and so out into the light and go to plowing or harrowing and do it as well as the best farmer in town. She raises chickens and also sends eggs to Boston and gets sixty cents a dozen the year around, I think. None will be more than a very few days old when the customer gets them. She has, I think, the best pair of horses in town and I know she has the best set of farming tools.

Last year she cleared out a large wood shed she and her painted the sides and timbers and covered the ground with a thick layer of pine shavings for a carpet, and hung pictures all about the walls and also fresh flowers, and set a lot of small tables and furnished a cup of tea and a plate of very delicate sandwiches and cookies for all comers at reasonable prices. Last year there were people came from York Harbor and Beach and from different directions with parties of two to six or eight so they did well last year but this year now that it is known better, I doubt if they can serve all who will come. She has given the name of the place as "Cherryneck Tea Shed." I see I have not given the name of this Woman Forum. Her name is Miss Thomas, I have forgotten her first name. She is the granddaughter of the celebrated Seth Thomas, the clock maker, and from childhood moved in the best society. Frank H. Hitchcock, Postmaster General of the U. S. A., was a playmate when they were children. I feel it an honor to be welcomed as a friend when I call on this "Woman Forum."

Between the fore road and back road the Eastern Division of the Boston and Maine Railroad runs, and has a station within a few rods of the geographical center of the town, where there is more freight business done than any other station between Portsmouth and Portland with one exception. Some years there are about twenty thousand barrels of apples shipped from here and millions of feet of lumber and many carloads of bricks. The main post office is located here, with a branch at South Eliot. The back road about two miles north of the fore road, running nearly parallel with that road, has some of the most charming country views one can see. When I have driven over that road with people who love nature and had a kodak with them they would stop almost every half mile that they might take a picture. Sometimes when going from the fore road to the back road we go by a private way across a large farm, where for nearly half a mile we drive through pine woods from 70 to 100 feet high on each side of a narrow road only just wide enough for two carriages to pass. Some of the largest farms in town are on this road. After crossing this farm we come to the back road and drive a few rods we come to the top of a hill and look off to the left, and see a beautiful sort of basin extending about one and a half miles which in summer is covered with green trees of every shade of green ever palated, no two just alike. With the electric cars running through this valley bound in spots with choicest ground where the cows are feeding, making it a spot where one wants to sit and read God's handwriting and meditate. It is under such conditions that one can feel that Heaven is not far off and our loved ones must be near by. A little over a mile brings us to the Rosemary cottage, built by Mrs. Farmer, Miss S. J. Farmer's mother, and given to the Boston Missionary society, where they bring forty-two children, with sometimes their mothers and keep them for two weeks and then bring forty-two more and keep it up through the summer, and if any one wants to see happy children it would pay to go a long distance to watch them for a little while. Going from here on towards South Berwick we soon come to a view which one who loves distant views will not soon get tired of looking at. On the left or west and south there is a stretch of about twenty-five miles each way of all the eye can wish for beauty. On the right or east side is Frost's Hill, which if your wind is good you ought not to miss standing on top of it in a clear day, and look north and see Mt. Washington and the long range of mountains, and look south and see the Isles of Shoals, and between all that one can imagine of beauty much more than my old pen can describe. Going on a little more than a mile we take a short turn to the left and soon find ourselves in sight of the old river again and drive back to Green Acre where we will find a cordial welcome. The next thing is the privileges.

We have the year around our common schools and high school. We have, as I have said, a very fine library free to all who live here or may visit us; a Grange hall with weekly meetings. We have two Methodist churches, one Advent, and one Congregational church; these are permanent. In the summer we have lectures at the Lanier Camp every Sunday and often during the week by able speakers, Rev. Dr. Josiah Strong of New York being one every year.

At Green Acre we have two or three lectures nearly every day from July first until usually the second or third of September, on every subject which the human mind can grasp, and some which it cannot grasp. Many of them equal anything which can be heard in any city. Then there are no many that any one can choose and leave out any they wish. All free. Wednesdays we have musicals which will often equal any to be heard in Boston or New York. At the musicals all are expected to make some contribution of money, just what their heart and pocket book think they can from five cents up. I have been acquainted with most of them who come here and I must say I have never met a more cordial, pleasant people in my life, and have made some of my choicest friends among them. I think at Green Acre one has the greatest religious privileges to be found in one spot in the world, for every person you meet has a different religion and you can take your choice. They are all ready to tell you what it is. The lectures and music promises to be as good this summer as we have ever had. If any one wishes to have a happy summer and renew their youth they had better come to Eliot for the summer or better still, make their permanent home here. ABRAHAM HILL.

IN MEMORIAM

Dear Fred how we shall miss you, So full of joy and fun, For as we thought of a good old time, We always looked towards one.

How we shall miss that deaf, dear face, With its radiant beaming smile, That seemed to say in its sunny way, "Life is short, it isn't worth while."

And the boys around the shore, When looking for a joke, Would look around them wondering why And wait till "Pikie" spoke.

But dear friends, do not mourn, For as we sit in memory, We know that in this wide, wide world, He left not an enemy. R. E. A. Thursday, June 6, 1912.

ELKS GET A WIN FROM RIVERSIDES

Last Inning Rally With Heavy Hitting Saves the Day.

The Elks got away from the break of the luck on Tuesday evening and came to their own when they found Jimmy Able in the fifth for five hits, one of which was a home run and another a two-sacker which counted for five runs and a win from the Riversides of Kittery. It was a game with lots of interest, if not played as well as some other of the Sunset League, with the defeated team showing up the poorest of the season. Jimmy Able, who has up to last evening been fooling the heavy hitters with as fine an assortment of curves as any of the old leaguers, but with no steam, in the first inning, when they counted three times, the Riversides put over two in their half and added two more in the third taking the lead, and the Elks made a last inning rally and piled up five runs which put the game on ice.

The game in detail:

First Inning.

The Elks were up first and they started going fast. Bruce started with a grounder down the first base line that Ned Paul took care of. Hanson singled and stole second. Swasey singled advancing Hanson. Cragen scored Hanson with a single and Bunker was safe on Plimpton's error and Swasey counted. Newick fanned and Plimpton made another error of Esterbrook's grounder and Cragen was home. Poole drew a pass and with three on Leary struck out.

The Riversides started after the lead with two runs. Caswell was thrown out by Esterbrook. Grant singled and Pruett followed with a single and both scored on Able's single. Huntoon pushed a grounder at Esterbrook and he forced Able at second. Paul was in with a two-base hit and with a man on second and third Plimpton was out on a fly to Poole.

Score—Elks, 3; Riversides, 2.

Second Inning.

Neither side scored in the second. Bruce started with a fly ball to Paul and Hanson was thrown out by Huntoon and Swasey singled but Cragen retired the side with a grounder to Huntoon.

Smart was out on a fly to Swasey. Norman struck out and Caswell was out on a foul fly to Newick.

Third Inning.

The Elks got three men on, but were unable to make any of them count. Bunker was out on a fly to Paul. Newick singled and he was safe on third when Able received Esterbrook's ground hit and threw it to Caswell at third, but he dropped it. Poole struck out, and Leary was hit, filling the bases, but Bruce was unequal to the occasion and struck out.

The Riversides scored twice in their half taking the lead. Grant was out Bruce to Bunker. Pruett struck out. Able was passed and stole second and scored on Huntoon's single over second. Hanson made a pretty throw for the plate but Leary intercepted it and started to throw to second to get Huntoon, but he was wild and Hanson again got the ball. Huntoon continuing on home. Paul was out to Bunker.

Score—Riversides, 4; Elks, 3.

Fourth Inning.

There was nothing doing in the run line in the fourth. Hanson was passed and was advanced on Swasey's single and both moved up one on Cragen's sacrifice to Caswell. Bunker fanned and Newick retired the side with an infield fly to Huntoon.

The Riversides got men on bases. Plimpton fanned and Swasey singled. Norman was hit and walked and a double steal placed men on third and second. Caswell was thrown out by Leary and Grant was out on a fly to Swasey.

Right, here the Elks placed the game in cold storage. Esterbrook, the first man up, clouted the ball way over Norman's head and he was able to amble around the bases for a home run before it was brought back. Poole singled and Soretto, who batted for

Here are Two Promising Shot Putters From a Field of Unusual Excellence

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—Observers of athletic events have expressed surprise at the unusual number of shot putters who have recently been developed. There is hardly a college that has not a man who has shown class in this contest and the Olympic committee has been troubled with a wealth of material from which to choose. A. W. Koehler of Michigan and A. H. Bissell of Princeton, who took part in the Intercollegiate meet here, pleased experts by their work. They look like they will develop in a season or two into worthy successors of those masters of the shot put, Ralph Rose and Pat McDonald.

RAILROAD DELAYING THE WORK.

The delay in the work of laying the pavement on Ellington street, is claimed by the contractors, Fitzgibbon and Dolan, to be up to the Boston and Maine railroad, as they are to relay the track and they are waiting for a shipment of steel ties which will be used.

EXETER HAS SAME PRICE AS THIS CITY.

It appears that the report that coal would be sold fifty and seventy-five cents cheaper in Exeter than this city, was unfounded and the dealers of Exeter are asking the same price as in this city.

Leary followed with another. Bruce got the habit and Poole and Soretto scored. Hanson was out to Paul and Bruce scored on Swasey's sacrifice fly to Norman. Cragen made a two-base hit and he was advanced to third when Ned Paul fumbled Bunker's hit. Pruett threw to Huntoon when Bunker started for second and Cragen romped home, and Newick ended the fireworks with a strike out.

The Riversides were unequal to the occasion and were out in order. Pruett struck out. Able was thrown out by Soretto and Huntoon was out via the air line to Swasey.

A REMARKABLE CURE

NEW YORK, June 11.—Ester Harris, an 18-year-old girl, who was placed in a heap of the lifeless in a Triangle fire disaster, but who was taken to a hospital instead of to the morgue when a faint sign of life was detected, and who suffered total paralysis for months afterwards, can walk again.

The girl slid down the elevator cable, but was knocked from her hold by a man who jumped down the shaft, and she was hurled to the basement, breaking her neck and back. On top of her fell 20 other girls, many of whom were killed.

After she had lain in a hospital unconscious for 14 weeks, with her life despaired of, she regained her senses. The surgeons experimented with her by attaching weights to her head and legs, to relieve the strain on the spinal cord of the fractured vertebrae, and to allow them a chance to knit together again. The operation was successful and it was learned today that the young woman has been discharged as cured.

For PORTSMOUTH and PORTSMOUTH'S INTERESTS

Wednesday, June 12, 1912.

The Washington Star says from time to time it has been suggested that it might be necessary to summon W. J. Bryan into political action, like Cincinnatus from his plow. But it is not necessary. Whenever national politics is astray Mr. Bryan turns the plow over to a hired man and manages to be on hand in person.

A dispatch from Pittsburg says J. Denny O'Neil, county commissioner, announced recently that within the next 18 months every toll bridge in the county would be made free at a cost of $2,500,000. It is to be hoped that the Maine and New Hampshire legislatures will take steps at their next session to do away with the toll bridges that surround this city and have retarded its progress for years.

It is stated that in connection with the suggestion that a Roosevelt bolt may throw election of next President into House of Representatives, it has been discovered that the House as at present constituted would probably be unable to give either of regular party candidates a majority. House would have to vote by state delegations, and is evenly split between two parties.

The Boston Globe says people engaged in collecting money for philanthropic purposes have all met men like the Kansas citizen who, when he was solicited for a contribution to the Y. M. C. A. building fund, backed off and spoke as follows: "Believing," said he, "in surrounding our young men with ennobling influences and environments; believing as I do in the Christian uplift, in the advancement of Alchison along moral as well as commercial lines, I am with you in spirit, and if my cow hadn't gone dry early this month I would have been more than pleased to give the enterprise my financial support."

The Washington Star says the ladies who want Andrew Carnegie for Secretary of War and Hettie Green for Secretary of the Treasury seem to have gotten mixed as to the qualifications of the eminent personages they so assiduously strive to compliment. The Secretary of the Treasury has certain responsibilities in the way of disbursement which would appeal to one who, like Mr. Carnegie, loves to pay out large sums. On the other hand, Mrs. Green's strategic operations when attacked by assessors indicate the resourcefulness and courage which should distinguish a great war official. The votes-for-women politicians should revise their cabinet slate.

Bird's-Eye Views.

Mr. Taft and Mr. Roosevelt have come pretty near taking the edge off anything the republican and the democratic candidates can say about each other when the crucial conflict comes.

A big political campaign enables a number of cities to enjoy the luxury of feverish excitement even though they are not represented in either of the big baseball leagues.

Detective Burns' method seems very simple. He turns his dictograph loose and then goes to luncheon and waits for results.

There is a frank acknowledgement that an overwhelming demand ought always to go to a convention well rehearsed.

The versatility of the weather, meteorologists are inexhaustible. Every summer can be depended on to produce several "hottest days ever."

In the year 1911 the steam railroads of the United States killed 10223 persons and injured 122,029. There is no call for this country to go to war. We have carnage enough in times of peace.

And now they threaten that if Roosevelt is not nominated at Chicago he will be in the field as a third candidate. This is evidently a year that promises well for a good-sized three-ring circus.

Trinity church in New York is the richest church in the world. The parish year book, just issued, shows property worth $75,000,000. The wealth of this organization came largely through the rise in value of real estate.

A Chicago woman says that a heavy hat produces a low brow. Into the ring with the weighty toppers.

Senator Elihu Root appears to have both friends and enemies in all the branches of his party.

Tom Watson has evidently decided that this harmony in the democratic party has lasted about long enough.

The suggestion that ex-presidents be made senators for life is again being renewed. It might save some trouble.

It should be constantly borne in mind by the noisy ones that the sober second thought of the nation is not expressed until November.

Always carry a grudge against the man who is paying you your wages. He must have some wicked motive for parting with his money.

Senator Lodge will be the happiest man in the country when this Taft-Roosevelt controversy is ended. The misfortune is that he has a high regard for both of them.

More about the Auto Accident

Editor Herald: Seeing the statement regarding the auto accident of June 8th printed in Tuesday's paper, I feel that unless I give the facts as I saw them your readers would get an erroneous impression of the circumstances.

Mr. Horton asked me to go with him and help with some stans which he wished to take to Dover.

Taking his Everitt Six we first went to the mill run by Mr. Chas. Holmes, taking a number of them into the car and Mr. Holmes taking some into his car, we started for Dover by way of Woodbury avenue.

Mr. Horton suggested that Mr. Holmes take the lead which he did. About the time we were passing Echo avenue Mr. Horton and I were talking and he suggested that we get

CURRENT OPINION

BY NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER, President of Columbia University.

THE NATION GUIDANCE NEEDING

WHEN Secretary Hay said that American diplomacy had but two controlling maxims, the golden rule and the open door, he spoke with an international mind. The policy of swagger, that of swinging sticks either big or little, and that of threatening to double or triple the military armaments and preparations of some other nation, are not compatible with the possession of an international mind. We are still a long way from the millennium, no doubt, and the lion and the lamb are not yet likely to lie down side by side with entire restraint of appetite on the part of the lion or with entire assurance on the part of the lamb. Nevertheless, we might as well be making progress, or trying to make it, and not allow ourselves to sit forever helpless under the blighting domination of the brute instincts of mankind, with all their unscrupulousness, their fierce enmity, and their passionate clamor.

It is astonishing how even men of the highest intelligence and the largest responsibility will be swept off their feet in regard to international matters at some moment of strong national feeling, or on the occasion of some incident which appeals powerfully to the sentiments or to the passions of the people. At the very moment when the nation most needs the guidance of its sober-minded leaders of opinion, that guidance is likely to be found wanting.

Most of all, we must do our best to lift political discussion, both national and international, up out of the mire of personality and unseemly controversies between individuals and private interests on to the high ground of principle. It is not fashionable just now in some influential quarters to have any fixed principals. There are those who think it becoming to court the favor of the populace by inquiring of them, as did the frightened peasants of Louis XI, "Sire, what are our opinions?" There are others who appear to emulate the example of Artemus Ward, who when asked what were his principles, replied: "I have no principles; I am in the show business."

the opinion of Mr. Holmes on the question and I proposed that we run alongside of Mr. Holmes' car and speak to him which Mr. Horton did as soon as he was able to overtake the Holmes car.

The hood of Mr. Horton's car was abreast the tonneau of the Holmes car as we were approaching the top of the grade in front of the house on the Gray farm when I saw the car driven by Mrs. Green approaching from the direction of Dover so close that a head-on collision seemed unavoidable.

Mr. Horton turned his car clear out of the road, threw out his clutch and applied the emergency brake and the Everitt car in which we were riding came to a full stop with the left front wheel upon the bank which at this point is nearly two feet above the road, the car coming to a stop so another craft turn to the right if possible, but go anywhere to avoid a collision."

There was scarcely any time to think before the collision occurred and I fully believe that Mr. Horton did the only thing possible under the circumstances and that if he had kept straight ahead or gone any other way it would undoubtedly have resulted in loss of life and greater damage to both cars.

I have ridden some miles with Mr. Horton and have the first time to see him drive recklessly and have repeatedly heard him caution others against carelessness, stating that there is too much money represented in an automobile to take any chances with them by carelessness. F. C. SHELTON.

WILD GESE ARE CONTENTED IN CAPTIVITY

Charles S. Allen Has a Choice Collection of Wild Fowl

The apparent contentment of twelve wild geese in captivity on the marshy land in Rye off Foye's corner is said by local hunting enthusiasts to be a nature freak that even one of the presidential candidates could not assail with any degree of certainty. Charles S. Allen of this city manager of the Portsmouth Reef and Provision company is the owner of the choice collection which also includes wild ducks and drakes.

The collection of this assortment began last year when Mr. Allen wounded one of the geese in a hunting expedition. Three others were subsequently added to the collection before the hunting season expired. The nucleus of the present assortment was lodged beside an ice pond near Foye's corner. Wire netting was used in making an enclosure. This year when Mr. Allen went to the scene to examine his quarry he was surprised to find eight more fowl, two of which were geese.

The first four geese captured had become domesticated. Their mates manifested no desire to leave them. Two of the fowl are sitting upon eggs, and Mr. Allen anticipates the arrival of another assortment. The fowl will be used for decoy purposes in the autumn and winter hunting season.

RAILROAD NOTES

The advance summer baggage rush is on at the North and South stations Boston, and several through trains find it necessary to haul two full baggage cars to take care of business offered by connecting lines.

The Boston and Maine railroad has issued an attractive booklet, "New England Resorts," which will be mailed free from the Vacation Bureau, room 354, South Station, Boston.

Part of the old buildings near the Vaughan street crossing that have been an eyesore have been removed by the railroad.

Freight business on the York Harbor and Beach branch continues to increase as well as the passenger traffic to nearly every station on the line.

The red spots which are to appear on the cars of the Boston and Maine railroad are for the purpose of assisting yardmen in their work of inspecting the cars to ascertain as to whether they are equipped with proper tanks and cups and not to designate smoking cars as was incorrectly stated yesterday. The dots will be red in color and will be three inches in diameter, they will show that the car is O. K. and will save the yardmen the time and bother of making unnecessary inspection.

NEW PARISH BUILDINGS

Boston architects are busy with the plans for a new school building in St. Mary's parish, Dover. The building will be located on the present site of the convent.

The new school building will be three stories, sixteen rooms with a chapel on the first floor. The building will be constructed of brick and cement. The present girls' school building is to be remodeled into a convent with the front of the building facing on Church street and another story will be added to the structure.

The large hall now on the lot will be used for several purposes after the completion of the new school building including a gymnasium for the young men of the parish, also a reading room. The hall will also be used as a place for the various societies of the parish to hold meetings.

Prominent among the hundreds of politicians who are more or less factors in connection with the Republican national convention at Chicago are Representative William R. McKinley, Senator Joseph M. Dixon, William H. Barnes, Jr., Ormsby McClure and Victor Rosewater. Mr. McKinley is manager of the Taft forces, while Mr. Dixon occupies a similar position in the Roosevelt camp. Mr. Rosewater is chairman of the national committee. Mr. McClure is chief counsel for the Roosevelt contesting delegations. Mr. Barnes is chairman of the New York state Republican committee and one of the delegates at large from his state.

G. H. Driver, Rev. C. F. Robinson, Rev. Inor Partington, benevolence; Rev. S. H. Dana, Rev. J. C. Robertson and Rev. L. H. Thayer, advisory committee.

WHAT DR. MORSE THINKS

He Would Be Afraid to Go Back Home and Face the People.

Dr. Morse, the democratic war horse of Rockingham, wants to keep the expenses of the state up and retain the number of representatives that now make up the general court of the state. In the constitutional convention he strongly opposed the reduction of the House and all resolutions pertaining to the same.

He did not want to go back to Newmarket and tell the citizens that they were to have but one representative, while otherwise they would have three. He moved the postponement of all amendments tending towards the reduction of the House and in this he was backed up by Mr. Rowe of Kensington, who seconded the motion. Motion lost. Upon motion of Mr. Lyford of Concord the committee arose reported progress and asked permission to sit again.

He may be voicing the sentiment of the people of Newmarket but as far as other sections of the state is concerned he is certainly in wrong.

If Newmarket gets only one representative cannot he make good and catch the voters of that town for a seat during the session of 1913?

MELROSE, Mass., June 12.—Pleading that blindness was slowly overtaking him, Albion J. Little, aged 65, who for 36 years had been employed as an engineer by the Boston & Maine railroad, begged that he be allowed to take his own life after he had made two unsuccessful attempts to shoot himself at Pine Banks park in this city yesterday.

He sent two shots from a 32-calibre revolver close to his heart. The shots were heard by James Dunham, a chauffeur who ran into the park and wrestled the weapon from the aged engineer.

"Give me back that gun; I want to finish the job," pleaded Little, too faint from loss of blood to offer much resistance. When Chief of Police Keri arrived in the park he again pleaded that he be allowed to take his own life. He was rushed to the Melrose hospital, where he is still on the dangerous list.

For 36 years Little had run a shifting locomotive for the Boston & Maine railroad, the greater part of the time in the Fitchburg division yards. A fortnight ago he resigned his position, after telling his friends that he was having serious trouble with his eyesight.

For nine years he had roomed at the home of Mrs. Patrick Judge at 292 Main street, Charlestown, where he was highly regarded. He was described as an efficient engineer, having modest tastes and good habits.

Kitchen Line.
A convenient clothesline for the kitchen or other place where a clothes drying line is sometimes needed, is rolled into an oxidized copper reel case about five inches in diameter. This reel screws to a wall or casing and a hook is put up in a casing on another wall. When the line is wanted it is stretched across the space between the two and is fastened by a ring over the hook, the reel meanwhile catching it automatically and keeping it from slipping. When the line is not in use it is out of the dust in the reel casing. The line is 25 feet long. It would be a convenience for the kitchen veranda or porch of the summer cottage.

Making Nut Muffins.
Two cups of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cup of milk, half a cup of chopped nut meats, two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of melted butter and half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, then add the beaten yolks of eggs, butter and milk. Beat well, add the vanilla extract and the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Divide into buttered and floured gem pans, bake in a hot oven for twenty minutes.

How to Clean Oil Lamp Burner.
Cut up some little potatoes in an old kettle with water and put in the lamp burners and let boil with the potatoes all morning or longer if they are very black. This will cook the black off the burners. Then take an old tooth brush, then put in hot soap water before they dried, and a large chicken feather is nice to clean where you cannot use a brush. I have cleaned my lamp burners this way for years. After they are clean they look like new burners. This is an old recipe that I read about twenty years ago in a household paper.—Exchange.

Drying a Sweater.
A new idea for the drying of a sweater or any knitted garment is as follows: First wash the garment in warm soaps and rinse thoroughly; then take a large dripping tin and line it with a towel to prevent possible rust. Place the woolen article in the tin and put in a warm oven. Turn and shake the garment frequently until dry and fluffy and the result will be most satisfactory. On no account shut the oven door and go away, as the result will be disastrous.

Lemon Honey Filling.
For pies or tarts, one cup of granulated sugar, juice of two lemons with the grated rind, two eggs and butter size of grated walnut; simmer on slow fire until thick. Delicious.

Ex-Mayor John Pender left this morning for a visit to Norfolk and he will incidentally take in the City case convention.

MEN WANTED

On Friday, June 7th, a number of employees of the Boston Elevated Railway Company left their positions, without notice and went on a strike which now exists. These represented almost entirely the newer, younger, more inexperienced men. A large majority of the men, including nearly all of the older, responsible men, remained with the Company and have faithfully served it in operating its car service, which has been well maintained over its entire system.

The Company wants at once suitable experienced Motormen and Conductors to fill the places of men who have left the service, and offers attractive, permanent employment not only to these but to other worthy persons who can qualify.

MANY AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION OFFERED

Three to Elect All Officers by Plurality Instead of Majority Vote --A Busy Session.

CONCORD, June 11.—Three members of the constitutional convention introduced proposed amendments today providing for the election of all state and county officers by plurality instead of by majority vote, as at present. The authors of these bills are George W. Fowler of Pembroke, Henry M. Hurd of Claremont and Buxton of Boscawen. All were referred to the committee of the whole for discussion later.

Altogether 16 new amendments were proposed today. They are, in brief, as follows:

By Quinby of Claremont: To increase the senate from 24 to 46 members.

By Merrill of Surry: To allow all class towns to send representatives to each session of the legislature.

By Goss of Berlin: Reducing the legislature to 200 members, to be elected by districts, increasing the senate to 50 members.

To Be Elected by Districts:

making the salary of the speaker of the house and president of the senate $500 each; salaries of all members $400 each and mileage.

By Smith of Berlin: To provide for a recall of public officers.

By Hollis of Concord: To provide for the appointment of all county officers now elected, with the exception of commissioners; and to appoint the treasurer for an indefinite term.

By Young of Manchester: To authorize the legislature to enact betterment laws whereby owners of abutting properties may be assessed for sidewalk and highway improvements.

By Stevens of Landaff: Authorizing classified taxation of property.

By Hurd of Claremont: To reduce the legislature by allowing one member to each town and ward having 500 population, and an additional representative for each additional 1000. This would bring the reduction on the small towns instead of the cities.

By Fellows of Tilton: To authorize a graduated income tax.

By Gilman of Warren: To authorize the legislature to fix salaries of corporation officers.

By Boynton of Portsmouth: To provide for classified taxation of intangibles and incomes; and another amendment to provide for the election of county commissioners for six-year terms.

But one subject was debated in committee of the whole at the morning session today. That was the question of reducing the house of representatives and increasing the senate and all of the numerous bills relating to this subject were taken up together. Newell of Surry, a veteran of three conventions and delegate from a class town, urged the small town delegates and told them no one-sided proposition would ever be ratified by the people; they must make some concessions. Unless this was done and the state continued to grow, the district system was bound to be adopted sooner or later, and the proportionate representation of class towns would end. He believed it reasonable to set the minimum for representation at each session at 800 population, with additional members for each 2000.

To Consider the Matter Fairly

Others who spoke on the subject were Hurd of Claremont, Colonel Crawford of Manchester, Lamproy of Wolfeboro, Morse of Newmarket and Rowe of Kensington. Dr. Morse pointed out that any enlargement would overcrowd the present senate chamber and necessitate a remodeling of the state house.

Col. Crawford reminded the convention that Manchester had offered a million dollar state house to the state three years ago on condition that it be erected in a public square in Manchester. This offer had been rejected, as it was expected it would be, but Manchester had done the next best thing and had erected on a public square in that city a public comfort. This would never be used by the people of Manchester themselves to any extent, and while he was not authorized to speak for Manchester he had no doubt that the people of that city would consent to the Transfer of This Building to Concord, if necessary for the accommodation of the proposed enlarged senate. The building, he declared, already had seating capacity for a large number of those who might probably be elected to the senate.

At this point, Young of Manchester interrupted the speaker on the point of order, that his talk was not germane to the question. Colonel Crawford appealed to the chair, and Mr. Scammon of Exeter, who was presiding, sustained the objection and advised the speaker to get around to the point. Amid the laughter of the delegates, although somewhat nettled, Colonel Crawford consented and closed his remarks with a tribute to the brains of the representatives from the towns.

Dr. Morse vigorously opposed any reduction of the house and moved that all bills calling for such reduction be indefinitely postponed. His motion was lost by a heavy negative. As no others were ready to speak on the subject the matter was laid over for later consideration.

Resolutions of respect to the late Frederick Pickering of Newington, delegate elect to the convention, whose death occurred recently, were adopted.

A FINE NEW AUTO TRUCK.

Boynton Bottling Works the Latest to Have Truck for Heavy Work.

Mr. G. Fred Drew, proprietor of the Boynton Bottling Works, on Tuesday received a handsome new truck for his business. It is a Stanley Steamer, thirty horse power and with a carrying capacity of three tons. The body is built especially for carrying cases and 120 tonic cases appear to be a small load. It is handsomely equipped, with nickel fittings, such as lamps, etc. This is the first Stanley truck that has been put out, for the company have up to this time only made trucks for their own use, but Mr. Drew being their agent for many years was able to get a special truck built along the lines he wanted it.

WILLING TO WRESTLE.

James Parnon, a Greek wrestler, wished to accept the challenge of Louis Kelleas of Dover, who recently challenged Parnon in this paper. Kelleas' challenge was that Parnon could not throw him twice within an hour. They have posted $25 each that they can both maintain their side of the argument and the match will probably be pulled off in this city.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP AT LAKE BELKNAP

Camp Belknep on Lake Winnepesaukee where a good many Portsmouth Y. M. C. A. boys pass their vacation, will be open this summer for its ninth season. The camp is under the direction of the state executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of New Hampshire. It is open for boys between the ages of 12 and 18 from June 27 to Aug. 7. It is maintained not for any financial profit but rather that New Hampshire boys may have an opportunity to spend their summer equipped with an athletic field, large and safe lake boats and a dark room. A tennis court has been started which will be completed by the campers during the season. The tents are 12 by 14 feet, with five foot walls, and have heavy flies. Board floors are used and the tents can always be kept dry and sanitary. Double-deck canvas cots are in use, each tent accommodating 7 boys and an adult leader. The food is plain and plentiful and is prepared by professional cooks.

Athletics receive a proper share of attention. Baseball, boating, athletic vacations among helpful surroundings.

Camp Belknep is something more than a vacation resort where boys can loaf for the summer. It aims to make the vacation season one of definite accomplishment along physical, educational and moral lines.

The management will again be in the hands of L. W. Dunn, state boys' and student secretary. In addition there will be a corps of carefully selected leaders who are in sympathy with the boys and interested in their development. Many are college men. There will be one such leader for every 7 boys.

The location of Camp Belknep is exceptional, situated on a sheltered bay on Lake Winnepesaukee, New Hampshire, on the northeast shore of the lake, six miles north of Wolfeboro and diagonally across from The Weirs.

The equipment includes a dining hall 24 by 48 feet, which can be used for evening entertainments; a cook-house; the lodge used as a canteen; headquarters; and a barn which serves as a workshop and storehouse. A manual training equipment has recently been donated to the camp. The lodge also contains the post office, camp store, hospital, library, dimitted sleeping quarters or male visitors, and a social room with a large stone fireplace for use during the evenings and on rainy days. The camp is furnished with a swimming pool, and aquatic meets are included. Swimming is carefully supervised and every precaution is taken to guard against accidents. A competent instructor is in charge to teach the boys to swim. Hikes to various points and trips around the lake by steamer occur frequently. The social features include mock trials, popular talks, vaudeville stunts, music and story reading round the big fireplace in the lodge. A camp newspaper, The Muskwa, is published every week. A healthy religious atmosphere exists in the camp. Short Bible study is held in the morning, with a vesper service on the wharf at sunset.

Nature study will be made prominent again this season. For the third year Prof. H. W. Brown of New Hampshire will have charge of this activity. Last year great interest was taken in the Wantonit club and before the season closed every boy and most of the leaders had earned and received the club's certificate. Special courses in geology, botany and astronomy will be given this year by Professor Brown.

Only boys are wanted who are willing to enter heartily into the spirit of mutual helpfulness of the camp. No boy is taken without the written consent of his parent or guardian, together with his own agreement to observe the camp rules. The camp cannot assume special care of sickly or weak boys.

NO MORE MEN TO BE SENT TO CUBA

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The absence of any fresh outbreak in Havana has encouraged the State Department in the belief that the measures already taken to show the purpose of this Government to maintain order in Cuba have been sufficient.

It has been decided that there shall be no addition to the naval force now in Cuban waters unless unexpected developments make it necessary. Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, the ranking officer at Key West, will remain there for the present, with the battleships New Jersey and Nebraska.

By wireless, the Navy Department will keep in constant touch with the first division of the Atlantic fleet after it leaves Hampton Roads with the midshipmen aboard, and it is expected that plans for the exercises of that portion of the fleet which were interrupted by the threatening aspect of Cuban affairs, soon will be resumed.

The American marine force has been distributed as follows:

Capt. F. L. Bradman, with 100 men from the Prairie, at Manzanillo; Capt. L. M. Gulick, two junior officers and 100 marines, at El Cobre; Capt. E. B. Manwaring, two junior officers and 128 men, at El Cuero; Lieut. Col. J. A. Lejeune, district commander, and Capt. H. J. Reares, Capt. F. H. Delano, two junior officers and 143 marines, at Siboney and its vicinity. The expeditionary force in the Guantanamo District is distributed as follows:

Lieut. Col. L. C. Lucas, district commander, Maj. H. C. Davis, Capt. A. S. Williams, two junior officers and 50 marines at Guantanamo City; Capt. C. T. Westcott, two junior officers and 100 marines at Bolona; Capt. B. W. Sibley, two junior officers and 50 marines at Los Canos; Lieut. Young and 25 marines at Boqueron; Maj. G. C. Reid and 50 marines at St. Cecilia; Lieut. R. H. Davis, two junior officers and 25 marines at Santa Maria; Capt. F. A. Ramsey, two junior officers and 50 marines at Isabel; and Capt. Logan Peland, two junior officers and 100 marines at Soledad.

HAVANA QUIET IS ABSOLUTE. HAVANA, June 11.—Absolute quiet prevails in Havana today and no news of any disturbances in the vicinity of the capital has come to hand. The Government declares that no dispatches have reached it containing news from the Province of Oriente.

In the night the police made many arrests of negroes, who are charged with conspiracy.

This morning Admiral Hago Osterhaus, commander-in-chief of the United States Atlantic fleet, arranged to pay official visits to Secretary of State Sanguily and President Gomez.

LANDED 65 BLUEJACKETS.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, June 11.—The United States gunboat Nashville put on land today at Magart, about two miles south of Nipe Bay, a detachment of 65 bluejackets, with a mountain gun, for the protection of the Woodford mines. The sailors will later be replaced by marines.

The town of Mayari is well protected by a force of 500 volunteers and 60 regulars. A column composed of 200 more regular soldiers is operating in the vicinity.

POLICE COURT

Judge Simes was at the desk in the municipal court a good part of Tuesday afternoon, hearing the case of Henry Lytle, Mary Craman and others. Lytle charged on two complaints with assault on Ralph Staples and Joseph Spinnay and they were both charged with assault on Lytle. In the testimony it was brought out that Lytle, Staples and Spinnay, who own the house where Lytle resides got into an argument about rent money and Lytle walked them both giving Staples the strong arm especially. Lytle was fined $1.00 and costs, $8.14 on one complaint and $19.00 and $8.44 on the other. He appealed and the case goes to the superior court. Mary had nothing to say when the court read the writ charging her with the larceny of $25.00 from George Pace. Not a word did she murmur as to her trip to Dover and why the 25 disappeared. Her case will be heard in the higher court. She was unable to furnish bail.
